AP Spanish Language and Culture is comparable in content to a third-year level course in AP Spanish Composition and Conversation. Students who enroll in this AP course must have a Spanish teacher recommendation and should have received a final grade of “B” or above for the previous year. Learning and production (interpersonal, interpretive and presentational) will focus on the following six themes: Contemporary Life, Personal and Public Identities, Global Challenges, Science and Technology, Beauty and Aesthetics, and Families and Communities. Students should already have a strong command of Spanish grammar and vocabulary. Spanish will be spoken by both student and teacher almost exclusively. Students are required to take the AP Spanish Language and Culture Exam.
